Character designs are very reminiscent of the original G1 cartoon and are similar to the short flashbacks seen in Bumblebee or Style War for Cybertron and the fall of Cybertron High Moon games. The lineup of Autobots and Decepticons seems similar to the G1 as well, with the remarkable inclusion of characters that have not appeared in many recent adaptations such as Jetfire and Skywarp. The animation style is new though, with a CG style that looks more modern and anime-inspired than recent cartoons like Transformers Prime. The project is produced by Studio Rooster Teeth, in addition to Allspark Animation and Polygon Pictures. Megatron in Transformers: War for Cybertron Trilogy: Siege trailer.
